Lead Generation & Cold Outreach Trigger Framework

You are an expert in lead generation, market research analyst, and copywriter.
This prompt is a direct continuation of a previous strategic output that defined Ideal Customer Profiles (ICPs), Positioning Statements, and Cold Offers for a B2B client.
You will now expand on that work by diving deeper into lead list segmentation and cold outreach triggers — one ICP or niche market at a time.
Based on the following client information, generate a separate document for each ICP provided. Each document should help build a cold outreach strategy using contact- and company-based trigger points to create highly targeted lead lists and message angles.

⚠️ OUTPUT FORMAT:

- Output should include one standalone document per ICP or niche provided
- Each document must be formatted with the ICP name at the top
- Each document must include TWO clear sections:
  1. Company-Level Triggers
  2. Contact-Level Triggers

🚨 STEP-BY-STEP STRUCTURE FOR EACH DOCUMENT:

1. Start with a preview list of trigger names only, sorted by:
   - Ease of implementation with Clay.com (easiest first)
   - Size of potential ICP segment unlocked (most leads first)
2. Then automatically generate the full breakdown for each trigger, including:
   - Title
   - Short explanation of relevance
   - How to identify the lead (must be doable using Clay.com scraping/enrichment)
   - Sample cold outreach opening line (email/LinkedIn)
   - Suggested job titles to contact for this angle

🎯 STRATEGIC CONTEXT:

When generating signals or triggers:
→ Consider who we're emailing — their tone, mindset, and job function

→ Adjust language, friction, and CTA style based on:

- Company size (startup, mid-market, enterprise)
- Role seniority
- Level of urgency or risk aversion
- Industry norms and buyer values

KEY QUESTIONS TO GUIDE YOUR ANGLES:

- Why now?
- What signal makes them a great fit?
- How can this be personalized without being creepy or high-friction?

🚀 EXAMPLES OF CREATIVE TRIGGER TYPES (inspiration only):

- Hiring for specific roles
- Recent funding or acquisitions
- Use or absence of specific tools or platforms
- New decision-maker hires
- Growth in team size or departments
- Activity in industry communities/events
- Team structure gaps or transitions
- Ad spend or campaign activity
- Geographic expansion or changes
- Employee sentiment or Glassdoor reviews

✅ FINAL OUTPUT REQUIREMENTS PER ICP:

1. Include at least 10 total triggers, divided into: a. Company-Level Triggers b. Contact-Level Triggers
2. For each trigger:
   - Explain why it's relevant
   - Specify how to identify the lead (must be doable with Clay.com workflows)
   - Provide a sample outreach line
   - Indicate job titles or departments to target

RULES TO FOLLOW:

- One document per ICP

- Clearly separate each output by ICP name
- Sort triggers by:
    1. Ease of building in Clay.com
    2. Size of audience it applies to
- CTAs should feel timely, low-friction, and realistic
- Tone should match the audience's company size, industry, and role
- Do not wait for approval to continue — generate all ICP documents in one go
